Respect Life Month

The month of October is set aside by our bishops as Respect Life Month. This is a particular time to remember the sanctity of all human life and the dignity of each human person, to learn about current issues and questions regarding human life, pray and work for growth in a culture of life throughout our country and world.

A number of great resources can be found at www.usccb.org/respectlife. I encourage you to take the time to learn more about the issues affecting life at its beginning and end by visiting this website. I will also attempt to provide some brief summaries in the coming weeks.

Also during the month of October I invite you to consider some ways of incorporating prayer for the respect and protection of human life from conception to natural death into your daily routine. Perhaps it could be included as part of your before or after meal prayer. Maybe it could be your intention for Mass or your hour in the Adoration Chapel. Regardless of how we do this, prayer is a great aid in building a culture of life.

Finally, another piece of building a culture of life is to consider how we treat those around us. Striving to be a little more kind or patient or hospitable or open to the needs of others helps us remember the dignity of each human person.

Until next time, God bless you,
Fr. Matthew

Mary's presence in the pro-life movement

If there was ever someone who could relate to someone in a "crisis-pregnancy" and the many hardships of their situation, it is the Blessed Virgin Mary. The world would have her believe that there is no reason for her to trust in God to bring the child Jesus to term and protect the family from the harm that so many wanted to do to it. Yet, even though everything about her life changed very suddenly when the angel of the Lord appeared to her, she needed nothing more than her trust in God and her faith in his plan to say yes to his calling to bear the Son of God himself.

It is no coincidence that October is both respect-life month and the month of the Holy Rosary. As we continue to foster a culture of life in the Church and in the whole world, Mary's humility and guidance will prove so crucial and so personal in our own lives. I was lucky enough to attend a benefit dinner a few weeks ago for the Vitae Foundation, an organization which has made possible much of our work in the pro-life movement. The organization has provided research and outreach to pregnancy advice and aid centers all over the country for years, and it is in part because of their work that those seeking guidance through incredibly difficult situations can be led to a place where they are loved, supported and helped, rather than judged, coerced or abandoned. At this conference, the keynote speaker said something that struck me, "God does not need our defense, he needs our obedience."

Amen to that! That obedience, which Mary herself teaches us through the mysteries of the Most Holy Rosary is what will lead us to help those who are in desperate need of love and support among us, the unborn and their parents. Let us continue to trust in Mary's leadership, and know that the queen of heaven and especially her Son will always be there for us.

FAITH FORMATION

Teaching the fullness of the Catholic faith

FORMED-Who Am I To Judge?

FORMED.org recently released a new program titled, “Who Am I To Judge?” led by Dr. Edward Siri of the Augustine Institute. This digital study program will focus on how we as Catholics can respond to the world’s questions on morality and relativism.

The following is a brief summary of the class on the FORMED.org website: “What is “right” and “wrong”? Is there a right and wrong for everyone, all the time? These are difficult questions to discuss in our culture. We live in a society that supports the opinion that each person should make up his or her own morality - that there is no moral truth that applies to everyone. Many of us have been affected by the relativistic outlook that pervades the modern world. How do we talk about morality in a relativistic world?”

This class will explore the classical view of morality and find that it’s not merely a set of guiding principles for theoretical situations—it is an entire way of life.

CHARITY

Challenging all to sacrificial service

Charity Begins at Home

You have surely heard the phrase, “Charity begins at home.” Those four words invite introspection into how we display generosity in our daily interaction with others. Most of us probably consider it our duty to help those who are less fortunate than we are with donations of money, food or clothing. Indeed, generosity with our material means is an essential component of Catholic charity. A charitable spirit can be demonstrated in countless other small gestures in our daily lives. Something as simple as being patient while waiting in line at the supermarket or offering a smile and a kind word to the person behind the cash register can make a long day of work a bit more tolerable for someone forced to work long hours for minimal wages. Speak up and compliment another when you admire their appearance or actions. Say please and thank you in a sincere voice. Leave a bigger tip than your hard-working waitress might expect. Those small acts of charity might have more impact than we can imagine.

Treat your own family with charity. Go out of your way to do a little something extra for your spouse. Silence your criticism in situations that are not worth the friction your words may create. Model charity for your children, teach them respect by example, and be generous with your time, patience and love for them. Every act of generosity beginning “at home” is an offering of sacrifice and thanksgiving for the gifts God has provided to us.

“We can do no great things, only small things with great love.” Mother Theresa

CONVERSION

“Synonyms of Conversion: change, changing, transformation, metamorphosis, transfiguration...” How can the Saints inspire us in our call to holiness?

Rosary

October is the month of the Rosary. The children of Fatima prayed the beads daily for the conversion of sinners. We too can try this. (Found on formed.org)

Have you been looking for some new inspiration? A person in the pews who listened to this talk left the following comment.

“I chose this talk because I struggle with the rosary. I wasn’t even looking forward to listening to it. But Wow! Excellent talk with humor and practical wisdom and spiritual insight. Dr. Siri has moved me to begin again this journey with praying the rosary daily. Thank you I will be investing in the book as well.” Log on to formed.org with code: 91366d

PRAYER CORNER

Personally Sharing the Catholic faith

A Prayer to our Guardian Angel

O most Faithful companion, appointed by God to be my guide and protector, and who are ever at my side, what thanks can I offer you for your faithfulness and love, and for all the benefits which you have conferred upon me?

You watch over me in sleep; you console me when I am sad; you lift me up when I fall; you avert the dangers that threaten me; you prepare me for the future; you withdraw me from evil and excite me to good; you exhort me to penance when I yield to temptation; and reconcile me to my offended God.

Long ago should I have been cast into hell, unless by your prayers you had averted from me the anger of God.

Leave me not, then, I entreat you; but still comfort me in adversity, restrain me in prosperity, defend me in danger, assist me in temptations, lest at any time I fall a victim to them.

Offer to God my prayers and groanings, and all my religious exercises, and obtain for me the great gift of final perseverance, and the grace to die in the friendship of my Creator, and so to enter into life everlasting.

Amen.

How far should we go?

In marriage, sin can be easy to spot... in our spouse! In this weekend's Gospel, Jesus gets really serious about sin, and, therefore, he raises the bar on how far we should go to root out sin. If our marriages are the most important relationship on earth, it is worth taking a look at how we can root out sins against our spouse:

- ♦ Switch to a flip phone or use accountability software to keep from looking at inappropriate websites, or even just to keep your phone from becoming a distraction.
- ♦ Intentionally flood your relationship with affirmation to correct a habit of criticism.
- ♦ Withdraw from activities that make too many demands on family time or Sunday Mass.
- ♦ Set reminders for yourself to do the things that make your spouse feel loved to avoid taking him/her for granted.
